TEXTGRUNDLAGE:

A Weekend Job

Lily is fifteen years old and lives in a small town near Manchester. Last month, she started a weekend job at a small animal shelter close to her school. On Saturdays, she arrives at nine o'clock and helps clean the cages and feed the dogs and cats. She doesn't get a lot of money for her work, but she loves spending time with the animals.

Lily's favourite animal at the shelter is a small brown dog called Max. Max was left alone outside the shelter one rainy evening, and nobody knows where he came from. At first, Max was very shy and didn't want to play with anyone. After a few weeks, however, he started to trust Lily and now he runs to the door every time she arrives.

Lily's parents are proud of her, but her mother sometimes worries that the job takes too much time away from her homework. Lily disagrees. She thinks the job actually helps her stay organised because she has to plan her free time more carefully now. Her best friend Emma sometimes comes along to help as well, although Emma is a bit afraid of bigger dogs.

Next spring, the shelter is planning a big charity event to collect money for a new building. Lily is already looking forward to it and hopes that many people from her school will come along and support the animals.
